Sealers

Why Seal? Reaction Time

When a liquid is spilled on an unsealed stone, tile or grout surface, a stain can result almost instantly. Sealing significantly reduces the degree of water absorption increasing the reaction time to clean before a stain can occur. Good sealers have reaction times measured in minutes. The best sealers have the longest reaction time measured in hours.

These sealers penetrate the surface to protect against stains without changing the look of the stone, tile or grout.
